From the Antwerp Courant, dated Nov. 23.

Madrid, November 6.

THEY write from Valencia of the first of this Month, that all the Troops design'd for the Siege of Denia, were in Motion, and that the said Place was to be invested the 4th of this Month. The Chevalier d'Asfeldt is to command that Expedition, and his small Army, when the Detachment which the Duke of Orleans is to send him from Catalonia has join'd him, will consist of 20 Battalions and 15 Squadrons. He has a Train of Artillery of 6 heavy pieces of Cannon, 6 great and many small Mortars to throw Granadoes, and a considerable Quantity of Ammunition; but the Enemy having reinforc'd the Garrison to 2000 Men, 'tis believ'd the Place will not be so easily taken as they imagine. They write from Lerida that the Duke of Orleans's Army was to separate the 2d of this Month, so that his Royal Highness is shortly expected here. The King has sent Orders into Galicia to raise four new Regiments in that Kingdom, and 'tis thought that the like will be done in Andalusia and in Castile.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 23.

Naples, Oct. 30. On Sunday last our Viceroy Cardinal Grimani, went in great Ceremony to the Cathedral Church of this City, where Te Deum was sung for the taking of Port Mahon, and of the whole Island of Minorca, three Salvoes of the Cannon of all our Castles being made at the same time. Yesterday was read in the Council a Letter written by King Charles from Barcelona, ordering the putting in Execution of the Pope's Letter touching the Disposition of the Bishopricks and other Benefices that are vacant in this Kingdom, provided they are given to the Subjects of it, and that his Holiness has acknowledged his Majesty by these Words, The King our Worthy Son Charles III. The Prince of St. Severino has taken Possession of the Office of first Jurisconsult of this Kingdom even to the third Generation, and his Vicar-General has taken the Oaths in the Hands of our Viceroy. The Brother of the Prince of Monteleone has been declar'd a Rebel by the sound of Trumpet, for his being actually in the Service of the Enemy: And 'tis said that a Resolution is taken to confiscate the Estates of all such as have without Leave departed the Kingdom since the arrival of the Imperialists; which will bring in vast Sums of Money into the King's Treasury, even enough to maintain the Forces now on Foot, who amount to 14000 Men, among whom are 9000 Germans. We are already recruiting our Troops; to which end 400 Men are every Day expected from Pescara. A Consul from the Queen of Great Britain is arriv'd here, and Cardinal Grimani has receiv'd him with great Marks of Civility. The Inhabitants of Ragusa have brought his Eminence the 12 Falcons, which that Republick pays Yearly as a Tribute to the Crown of Spain. A great Train of Artillery is preparing here to be sent to the Frontiers of the Ecclesiastical State. Two English Privateers have brought in here a French Prize and the Commanders of those Privateers report, that a Detachment of the Fleet of the Allies will come hither in a very short time to take on board some Troops and Ammunition for the intended Expedition against Sicily. Our last Advices from Palermo say that the Viceroy of Sicily had been very ill, but was now on the mending Hand: That the raising of the 10 Regiments of Foot went on but slow, because the Sicilians are not over-willing to serve the present Government; most of them being well affected to the House of Austria, and that the Viceroy had caus'd to be seiz'd and put into Prison several Persons who had talk'd too freely of the present Government.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Nov. 23.

Naples, Oct. 30. The Prince of Darmstadt is return'd hither from Gaeta, after having compos'd all the Troubles that happen'd there upon the Affair of Fundi. A Dutch Ship call'd the Star arriv'd here on Monday last, laden with several Merchandizes for this Place. Five Vessels are order'd away for Calabria to reinforce the arm'd Tartans which are to convoy the Ships laden with Corn, which is expected here in a few Days. The Train of Artillery which together with some Companies of Militia and several Bombardeers and Gunners was to have gone towards the Borders of this Kingdom, is countermanded till further Orders.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 22.

Zurich, Nov. 11. The Deputies of this Canton who were sent to Arrau, to consult with the Canton of Berne, had Orders, as soon as they had so done, to go to Baden, to confer with Count Trautmanndorf, his Imperial Majesty's Minister, concerning the present posture of the Affairs of the County of Tockenbourg; but we have not yet any Advice how the Conferences at Baden are ended. The Directors of the Post at this Place and at Baden, who have been long at variance with one another, met there all the last Week, and have reconcil'd their Differences not only to the satisfaction of both Parties, but likewise of both Cantons. M. Stanian, Envoy Extraordinary from the Queen of Great Britain rid Post Yesterday through Schaffbuysen in his Way to the Hague, from whence he is to proceed to London: The Opinions are various concerning the cause of his Journey.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 23.

Zurich, Nov. 5. The Deputies of this Canton and those of Berne, who went to Baden to make some Proposals to Count Trautmanndorf the Emperor's Ambassador, finding him gone from thence for some time, have desir'd leave of their Principals to return back, which 'tis thought will be granted them. The Protestants of Tockenbourg have held a Synod lately, and have there settled a new Ecclesiastical Discipline with the Liturgy of this Canton: and 'tis said that the Roman Catholick Cantons will assemble in a little time at Lucerne, to answer to the last Declaration of the Protestant Cantons of Zurich and of Berne, concerning the Affair of of Tockenbourg; and that they would likewise deliberate on the request made to them by the Pope some time ago, that he might have leave to raise 4000 men in their Country.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Nov. 23.

Leipsich, Nov. 14. Some Advicts from Poland say, that General Leenwenhaupt was dangerously wounded in the late Action, but that he lost only 2000 Men, though the Muscovites make that Loss amount to no less than 10000. We have yet had no particular Relation of that Affair, and seeing we have hitherto had no Account of it but what the Muscovites have given us, we must wait for what the Swedes will tell us, before we can form any right Judgment thereof. Those Advices add, that the Muscovites having intirely ruin'd the Mills, to hinder the Swedes from making any use of them, his Swedish Majesty had thought fit to repass the Borithness with his Army. The Plague continues to rage, but with less violence at Lublin, and at several other Places; and 'tis quite ceas'd at Warsaw, but not in the Neighbouring Villages. They write from Berlin that M. Bathorst, Envoy of the Duke of Saxe-Gotha, has congratulated the King of Prussia on his Marriage in the Name of the Prince his Master. The King of Denmark is expected here to Morrow incognito, under the Name of the Count of Schaumbourg, and 'tis believ'd his Majesty will go to Venice.
